Korean plan for collecting uniforms?

Among the first "Germans" captured at Normandy were several Koreans. They had been forced to fight for the Japanese Army, until they were captured by the Russians and forced to fight for the Russian Army, until they were captured by the Germans and forced to fight for the German Army, until they were finally captured by the US Army.

Tours

Monday and Tuesday 23-24 September are open time. Tours or golf can be arranged, on request.

Wednesday 25 September: Jet Boating in Hell's Canyon. Two hours south of Spokane is America's deepest gorge, Hell's Canyon, where you'll ride a jet boat down the Snake River between Idaho and Oregon, an unforgettable trip through the beautiful and rugged country of the Northwest. Don't forget your camera! This ride takes you past historical sites and tells of the history of the canyon. A lunch stop will be at Heller's Bar, overlooking the Snake River. Time: 0630 – 1600 hours. Cost: $127*/person buys you bus transportation, guide, jet boat ride and lunch. (* $127 Cost Reduced to $89/Person!)

Thursday 26 September: Historic Spokane's "Age of Elegance" tour with lunch at Patsy Clark's mansion. Enjoy a tour of the rich history, historic homes and attractions of Spokane as we travel past Spokane Falls, learning about where the city began, along the grounds of the former Expo '74 site, now Riverfront Park. Then up the South Hill, where views of the city, stunning mansions and majestic St. John's Episcopal Cathedral are located. Tour inside the cathedral. Discover Manito Park while strolling through the formal sunken gardens, authentic Japanese Gardens and flower-filled Conservatory. See the historic area of Browne's Addition where many of the old mansions are being restored to their former splendor. Lunch will be at the spectacular Patsy Clark's mansion, built for a million 1898 dollars. The architect traveled around the world to select designs and materials for the home. After lunch, tour the Crosbyanna Room at Gonzaga University's Crosby Library to see gold records and other alumnus Bing Crosby memorabilia. Time: 0900 – 1330 hours. Cost: $44/person, plus 8.1% WA state tax, for bus transportation, guide and 3-course lunch at Patsy Clark's.*

Friday 27 September: Lunch Cruise on Lake Coeur d'Alene. Travel to Idaho where you'll board the cruise boat for a 2-hour private cruise with lunch on gorgeous Lake Coeur d'Alene (pronounced ("core-dalane"). National Geographic reported this as one of the most beautiful lakes in the world. Along the way, pass by the now famous floating green at the Coeur d'Alene Resort Golf Course. There will be a no-host bar on board. Time: 1100 – 1500 hours. Cost: $50*/person, based on 80 people, a bit more if fewer sign up. If more go, perhaps we can negotiate a slightly better deal. Cost includes: bus transportation, guide, a two-hour lake cruise and deli buffet lunch. (*$50 Cost Reduced to $45!)

Saturday 28 September: Historic Silver Valley and Crystal Gold Mine tour: Learn about the boom days of the late 1800's on the way into the richest Silver Mining District on Earth. Start with a tour of the Cataldo Mission, the oldest building in the State of Idaho, built by the Coeur d'Alene Indian Tribe and the Catholic missionaries in 1853 without the use of a hammer or nails. Next is lunch at the Enaville Resort, the former "Snake Pit", built in 1880 as a supply store for the early miners during the Mining Rush. This log building has driftwood furniture and eclectic art hanging from the walls and ceilings. Then on to the Crystal Gold Mine, an authentic 1890's underground gold mine. See native silver, gold-bearing quartz, unusual crystal formations and mining artifacts. Learn how the miners worked with only the use of a pick, shovel, dynamite and a candle on their hard hat for light. You'll be amazed how they were able to work in these conditions. Return to Spokane after the tour. Time: 1030 – 1630 hours. The cost of $43*/person includes: bus transportation, guide, lunch at the Enaville Resort and admission to the Cataldo Mission and the Crystal Gold Mine. (*$43 Cost Reduced to $40/Person!)

Sunday 29 September: Barbecue and spectacular Laser Light Show on Grand Coulee Dam. For those willing to stay over an extra day...travel through some of Eastern Washington's rich farm country on the way to Grand Coulee Dam. Along the way, stop for a western style dinner. Next, see the Laser Light Show on one of the world's largest dams (one of the eight Wonders of the World when I was a kid). The show is narrated and accompanied by music and bleacher seating is provided. Time: 1630 – 2330 hours. Cost of $43/person, plus 8.1% WA state sales tax, includes: transportation, guide and dinner. *

I cannot remember name of friend who was KIA early part of 70, may have even been early spring, during operations outside of An Khe. He was a transfer from Recon CO E and was not with me long before he was KIA by sniper/ambush. I am planning return trip to Vietnam and the Central Highlands in April and it would mean a lot to me if I could recall my friends name. BuddyBarman@aol.com

My grandfather, Sgt. Euell I. Baldwin, KIA Sept. 1944, was in Patton's 3rd Army, 4th Infantry Division. He was killed in action (in France I believe) in September of 1944. He was the company cook. This is all anyone in my family seems to know. My grandmother recently gave me his Purple Heart and the few personal effects sent home. I'm told he was buried in Nanci, France, but that these graves were moved years later. I'm looking for any information, historical and personal, about his outfit, where he was killed, any possibility of surviving vets that may have known him, etc. MSeeley@sonusnet.com

Jack McElroy

I was with the 4th Aviation Co. / Ft. Lewis WA from Sept 60 to Mar 63. I am currently in contact with a couple of the guys from those days and would like to try and find a few more. The guys I am in contact with are: Lt. Bill Vertrees and SP4 Richard Buckwalter. Buckwalter is in contact with Bill Sherrill. I would like to contact and say hello to Lt. Jim Hunt and Lt. Bob Kuhn

My Dad fought with the 4th in WWII. His name is Carl Kuhn, 37096684, Private First Class, Cannon Company, 8th Infantry, from North Dakota. He died when I was young so I never was able to talk to him about his service with the 4th. I do know he told me he was in the D-Day invasion and I know he won ribbons for battles in France and Germany. He was awarded the Bronze Star at Ansbach for heroic action 17 April, 1945 and I have the citation. He never sent for the medal, he told me he just wanted to go home. I was wondering if any of you ever served with him or remember him. He only spoke to me one time about his combat service (18 months) and that was in 1961 when he took me to see "The Longest Day." I was 9 years old. I am trying to piece together his service record so that I can save it for my 2 sons. rakuhn@monsanto.com

Frank Schuler

I am 20 years old and I am living in Diekirch/Luxembourg. I am very interested in WW II and specially in the battle of the bulge. Diekirch was hit very hard too. I am looking for veterans who were here in 1944-45 to tell me their personal experiences and adventures during those terrible fights. I have a lot of books on the B.B. but there are only explanations on division movements and battles but very rarely something about the soldier's life. I want to know how the soldiers felt during the fights and after and that is what I am looking for now. If you can help me in my researches I'll be very happy. Thank you in advance. frank@schuler.lu

My issue is there was no citation report on what my father did, and if I'm reading his DD214 correctly, he may be entitled to two additional bronze stars. I have the form to request records information from Syracuse, but I don't have much hope that they'll be able to find anything after all these years. My greatest wish is to just find out what he did, because he never talked about it. It would be great to find someone who knew him during that time. Ryter recalls winter in Ardennes

Submitted by John Plonski

It was winter, 1944. Allied troops who had stormed the beaches six months earlier on D-Day, June 6, had pushed forward through the Nazi defenses.

On the morning of Dec 16, while crossing the woods at Ardennes, Belgium, the troops were met with a massive offensive by about 500,000 German soldiers.

This was the Battle of the Bulge and Ridgewood resident; Adolph Ryter was there.

Now 73, he sat in his comfortable living room on Newcomb Road recently, recalling that brutal time 50 years ago when he was a scared private going into what would be the biggest battle of his life.

Code named "Watch on the Rhine" by Nazi Leader Adolph Hitler, it was one of the bloodiest battles of the war.

The plan called for German Field Marshal Gerd Von Rundstedt and General Hasso Von Manteuffel to take their troops and break through the Allied line in Ardennes.

The fighting that followed became so intense that soldiers finally went to hand-to-hand combat utilizing the bayonets at the end of their rifles.

Under the command of allied commander General George S. Patton, the first and third armies stopped the German offensive, forcing the Germans to retreat further into Eastern Europe.

When the battle ended, heavy casualties were suffered by both sides. The Allies suffered 77,000 dead and wounded and the Germans 130,000, including Hitler's last powerful reserve, his Panzer Elite Tank Unit, which was destroyed.

Ryter, a former New York native, was born in Italy and immigrated with his family to New York. He became a lens grinder before being drafted into the army, Fourth Infantry Division, Eighth Infantry Regiment, Company E, in 1943.

After landing on Normandy Beach, Ryter's company advanced with the rest of the allies and starting on Dec 16, they fought their way through German occupied territory for the next three days. Ryter fought his last battle Dec 19.

"It was about 6 a.m. and cold. Command had pulled us out of the Hertgen Forest and moved us to this forward area by truck. When we got there we got out and headed back into the woods. We were going down a small hill to set up an opposition for the Germans that were reported to be on top of the hill in front of us," began Ryter.

"There was a farmhouse on the left. What we didn't realize was that the enemy was setting up a line of tanks on the flank. Then the shelling started."

Ryter and his unit spread out and took to the ditches along the sides of the country road.

"It seemed like an eternity," he said. "One of the 88-mm shells went off and I took pieces of it in my leg. I had three-and-a-half inches of bone shot out of my leg and a hole the size of a fist."

Ryter lay in the ditch among the dead and wounded soldiers as the shells exploded all around. Company Sgt. Plonski ran to the ditch and carried Ryter out.

"Out of 65 men, 12 were alive and our of the 12, eight of us were wounded. I was brought to the farmhouse, which was used as an Aid Station. I remember they moved us out at night because it was dark and I was hurting like hell."

Ryter was moved to a battalion station in Metz, France where they performed the first operation on his leg. After several days he was taken to an Army Air Base in England.

"They said I had a million dollar wound...I would be sent home. I arrived in England on New Years Eve. After a couple of months at an army hospital, I was shipped home on the Queen Mary on March 7 and landed in New York on March 11," said Ryter.

Ryter spent a total of 50 months in the hospital, undergoing operations on his leg.

For his actions during the battle, he received a Bronze Star with a cluster, a Purple Heart with a cluster, European Theater Operations Award for fighting in Normandy, Northern France, Ardennes and the Rhineland American Campaign Award, World War II Victory Medal and a Good Conduct Medal.

(Editors note: John Plonski is a member of the 4IDA and submitted this article after seeing it in the newspaper.)

4ID has Friend in Normandy

by Bob Babcock

You have heard me talk about our good friend, Philippe Cornil, formerly from Belgium but now living in St-Marie-du-Mont, just behind Utah Beach in Normandy, France. Philippe first contacted me by email in 1999, visited me in Atlanta in January of 2001, and has been a great asset and friend in researching the WWII accomplishments of the 4th Infantry Division and sub units of the division.

In late January, Philippe opened an exhibit of historical pictures, military vehicle models, and other artifacts in his museum in Normandy, which will be available through early April. Additionally, he hosted men of today's active duty 2-22 Infantry as they visited the D-Day beaches in late February (just as this newsletter was going to press). Philippe gave up a lucrative law practice in Belgium to move to Normandy and pursue his passion of preserving the history of the American soldiers who saved Europe in WWII - with special focus on our 4th Infantry Division WWII vets. To help make a living, Philippe has two sleeping rooms in his house that he rents out, and he will give custom tours of the Normandy area, in addition to his museum and exhibits. If you or any of your family or friends are heading to the battlegrounds in Normandy, please contact Philippe and see if he can help you - and you can help him. You can check him out on his web site at www.revive-it.com or write him at: place de l'Eglise n 38, 50480 Sainte-Marie-du-Mont, France.

Because of his outstanding support of us, Philippe has recently been made an honorary life member of the National 4th Infantry Division Association.

Philippe sent the following note in early February, "I was on a radio interview yesterday in Normandy and told them the 4th

The Iron Horse

Below is a note from COL (Ret) Dave Hughes, a former 4ID (M) 3Bde Cdr., G3, and CoS. Sheds light on the division's recent history and thought you might be interested in it. He's near Colorado Springs and has quite a distinguished combat record from the Korean War. Got to talking to him about direct-support artillery for maneuver brigades and accidentally said something about "Ironhorse" to him, hence the story below. John Thomson, MAJ—4ID DIVARTY

I'll give you (and the 3d Bde) a little more depth of the reason why the name - and its associations - happened at the end of the 60's.

I happen to be a Colorado native - grew up in Colorado Springs before the Air Force was out of the Army (AFA) and Fort Carson, an expansion post for WWII, was thought of. Went to West Point from CS, and accidentally was assigned to Carson, an Infantry Division Post, and the then going-out-of-business 5ID, becoming the 4ID(M) as I arrived in 68.

The CG, Roland Gleser wanted me for his G-3, first giving me the 2dBn, 11th Inf. (M) to learn a bit about I was always aware of the tradition of the US Army in the West in the 1880s. A while after that Gen. Bernie Rogers took over, I was G-3, and major changes (VOLAR) were afoot across the Army, trying to become all volunteer. Most of the radical 'changes' had to do with the social, living, and people-conditions of the Army. Nobody was much modernizing the 'training' for combat readiness. I was always combat oriented - preferring to be a warrior.

I saw immediately that all the soldiers and NCOs coming back from Vietnam didn't know an M113 from a Truck - and treated them either as a Truck, or a Tank. And they were neither. I remembered that the 'Dragoon's - who rode to battle on horses like Cavalry, but fought on foot, like Infantry - were the historical model for the Mech. Infantry. But there was no home for the Mech. Infantry. Infantry had its Benning, Knox its Armor, Sill its Artillery. Mech. was an orphan, and soon there would BE no pure Infantry Divisions, as the missions aimed at Europe and away from Asia.

Now while the proud 'Ivy' Division had landed at Normandy, and some of the old vets didn't like any changes, I suggested that the 4ID(M) take the Iron Horse (M113s) as its new identity. And we put a black horses head on top of the Ivy Patch (still there???? I doubt it - but you can see signs with that all over Colorado Springs and outside Carson), bought a beautiful black stallion, and thus we added the Western 'horse' soldier image to that of the Ivy Leaf Infantry. That's where the name originated, circa 1970-71. Gen. Rogers had made me Chief of Staff of the 4ID(M) and of the Post.

I wasn't done yet. While the radical changes were going on (and believe you me Fort Carson was way out ahead of the rest of the Army, AND controversial.) As I pondered how to create pride and real combat-oriented 'professionalism' in the 'Mech Infantry' I hatched the idea of Mechando - Mechanized Recondo. Just as Rogers was replaced by MG John Bennett, who was more interested in flair than substance - but was good at it. And I was put in command of the 3d Brigade.

Mechando was a training/readiness concept in which every officer and man in the Division would have to 'earn his Gauntlets' - the black GI glove with a wide leather cuff added to it - as the Dragoons wore. And earn it by successfully negotiating the Fire Run, the Water Run, and the Night Run alone in an M113. The Fire Run being negotiated over the absolutely steepest uphill, side hill, and downhill terrain the M113 could handle (and we rolled a few tracks experimenting), while live frangible ammunition was being fired at the buttoned up track. And at one point, the track being unable to go up a small cliff, the trooper inside (from MG Bennett to Private E-2) had to bail out with pot, rifle, bayonet climb that cliff and assault the dummies on top. Underscoring that it was STILL Infantry in that Track. Something the old Armor Sergeants didn't have to do.

The Water Run requiring the trooper to go off a ramp buttoned up, into the water, pancaking, sinking a bit, bobbing up, then swimming across the small water body, and coming up, without sinking (and drowning). They had to go off at just the right speed. The Night Run, buttoned up, following fast with only night lights on tracks, through woods. All designed to totally familiarize every man in the Division, and give every one, including small unit leaders in the hatch - not just drivers - with the capabilities and limitations of the M113 and Mech Tracked (arty included). So they could 'wield' a track like a Ranger's knife, or airborne's chute. (and we did LOTS of other things, like 'tug a track' pulls, to teach leaders track flotation, what it would take with manpower only - not a track retriever - to get a busted track off the road) and hatched new tactics, such as quiet running night 'infiltration' of entire battalions through spread out defenders. And we held tank drag races. And road rallies, with the girlfriend in the hatch, navigating, to a picnic site. MY slice of the Russian Army would be 13 Russian Regiments against my 1 Bde in war plans. We had to be cleverer, more accomplished with our weapons and tracks to substitute for mass - ala WWII. My classmate, Jack Palmer commanded the Artillery of the Division then, and had counterpart training.

Once the trooper successfully negotiated the runs, his name was stamped into the flared leather cuff of the Gauntlet glove and he wore it thereafter. Like the beret, the wings, and the patch so long as he was in the 4ID(M) at Carson. It certainly worked - and got soldiers interested via its 'adventure training' that was relevant to the deployment combat mission, while I, and Rogers and Bennett, were there, and helped 'transition' a lot of officers and men from the Vietnam airborne Infantry, to the European Mechanized Infantry realities and the Volunteer Army.

It was, needless to say, controversial, costly (a few lives, including one redleg soldier who showed up drunk, failed to fasten his seatbelt before the Fire Run - and nobody checked him - rolled his track.) And as usual I was in the middle of the firestorm of 'administrative' criticism. But then I never ducked criticism from those who did not know what extreme combat was all about - which I learned in Korea AND Vietnam.

So I think it was that phase of the 4ID(M) that made its Iron Horse name stick.

Dave Hughes dave@oldcolo.com

P.S. The biggest kick I got was when MG George Patton Jr. - in DSCOPS Training, Pentagon, showed up. I demonstrated the course to him, standing up in the hatch while I - a grunt -drove the track over the extreme course, while he, old armor himself, waved and smiled at the track following with Press in it, but was scared spitless, and was cursing me out over the intercom threatening to beat me to a pulp if I rolled the track. So we even showed the old tankers a trick or two. Ha!

A/1/8 2002 Reunion

June 21, 22, 23 Casa Marina – Key West, FL

Preparations and arrangements are in process for our A/1/8 Chapter Reunion 2002. At the San Antonio meeting last October, it was decided to avoid any conflict with the National Reunion by moving the 2002 meeting up a few months. This will also give some people who have said that October is a bad time for them the opportunity to attend. And we have it on good authority from our 2002 reunion chairman, Jerry Horton, that June is a great month to visit Florida as the weather is excellent and the hurricane season is still a few months off.

Jerry Horton has signed a contract guaranteeing us excellent rooms at this luxurious beachfront hotel for $139/night. He also plans to offer us deep sea fishing, snorkeling and a Saturday night Beach Party in front of his beachfront home. Or there is the local scene and the possibility that we might get Jimmy Buffet to sing for us. It's going to be great. More info will be sent to A/1/8 Chapter members. Others interested can contact Ken McCormack, Secretary/Treasurer, A/1/8 Chapter, 4IDA, 4208 North Rogers Rd., Spring Valley, CA 91977

Infantry Division had not received a decoration from the French government for the landing on D-Day. I figured if I raised some noise, maybe someone will contact you to fix that problem." He went on to write, "I am awfully proud to be considered as an honorary member with all that means. Thank you very much for the certificate of appreciation. I am full of emotion at the reading of your words and I thank you deeply for the honor and your friendship. Be sure that I'll always do my best and there, wherever I go, the 4th Infantry Division will never be forgotten, and not just for the WWII part of your history."

FOCH + Dreams = Reality ❖ YOU + Your Generosity = Monagnard Programs Supported

The Friends of the Central Highlands, Inc. has an informal history reaching back to the war years, 1968 - 1970. Though the organization was not formally organized and set up as an Oklahoma Charitable Corporation until March 29, 1995, the dream to return to the Central Highlands of Vietnam for the purpose of providing assistance to the Montagnard people had been in the hearts of two of the founders for some twenty-seven (27) years.

While serving with the United States Army's 4th Infantry Division in the Central Highlands during the years 1968 - 1970, Arnold R. Waggoner and Charles Burt lived and worked with the Montagnards (translated as Mountain People), particularly the Jarai clan. Waggoner and Burt's tours with the 4th Engineer Battalion (Combat), living and working with the Jarai clan, provided them with a deep and abiding respect for these simple mountain people, and provided the impetus for the formal organization of The Friends of the Central Highlands, Inc. (FOCH). Bill Rinehart, the third incorporator, also served in the Central Highlands, during the period 1968 - 1969, with the 3/12th Infantry, where he became impressed with the Montagnard people through a Montagnard company of Civilian Irregular Defense Group (CIDG) soldiers serving with his unit.

During the war years, the Jarai tribesmen were taught self defense and agricultural improvement; schools were built to teach their children the Vietnamese and English languages; and attempts were made to assist the Jarai in adapting to the 'new society' brought about by the foreign intruders to their highland country. Unfortunately, when the United States withdrew from the Vietnam War, the Montagnards paid the price for their association with the United States military. Waggoner and Burt, with their departure from Vietnam imminent, promised their Jarai friends and allies that they would return someday to assist them. From this promise The Friends of the Central Highlands, Inc. was born some twenty-five years later.

The Friends of the Central Highlands (FOCH) funded twenty-eight (28) scholarships for Montagnard students to finish elementary and for secondary and university studies in 1995. At the end of 1995, three university students received degrees and hopefully will put their education to good use helping their fellow villagers. FOCH approved scholarship applications for twenty-four (24) Montagnards continuing their education and four new applications for scholarship in 1996. The Friends funded thirty-one (31) scholarship applications in 1997 and, for the first time, provided over $10,000.00 in scholarship funding, agricultural initiative funding and other types of financial support designed to improve the Jarai Tribe's standard of living. Recently, with your assistance, we have been able to expand support to other Montagnard tribes, as well.

FOCH has supported the following agricultural endeavors with the Central Highland Montagnards since its inception:

- Grants for trials with irrigation of vegetables, and trials with well pumps.
- Sustained efforts, for women only, to develop tree plantations (joss, eucalyptus, etc.)
- Funded trials with numerous types of vegetable and tree varieties that are not normally found in the Central Highlands area of Viet Nam.
- Instituted a small loan program ($100.00 maximum) with a quick turnaround to support cottage industries.
- FOCH has also been instrumental in providing the means to pursue agricultural development, including the purchase of land by Central Highland Montagnards, planting of coffee trees as potential cash crop, and vegetable production for resale and personal use.

FOCH has no paid employees. Each of the founders and other members of the Board of Directors donate their time and expertise to the organization. FOCH does now have a full time office manager (also unpaid). Arnold's wife, Janelle Waggoner, has begun working for FOCH full time and is appreciated by all. She or Arnold may be reached by email: sgmw@flash.net. Welcome Janelle!

Now for the bad news: FOCH has recently learned that persecution and punishment of the Montagnards in the Central Highlands continues to plague these courageous and wonderful people. One of the project managers for FOCH was recently sentenced to four years in prison for allegedly being involved in the uprisings of February 2001 in Pleiku. Ksor Alup is a former officer in the Mike Strike Force and he served as an interpreter for Special Forces and the 4th Infantry Division. His son, Ksor Hon barely escaped the same sentence by seeking exile in Cambodia. Through sponsorship, Hon has just arrived here in the United States and resides in North Carolina with some relatives. These are men our group had lunch with in Pleiku in 1998 and whom I (Bob) hold dear. Several other Montagnards received even longer sentences for protesting the taking of their lands and the restrictions of their religious practices. Alup leaves behind his wife, Byoh who is now alone, as are other families of those who have been unjustly incarcerated for simply wanting to keep their land and to practice Christianity as their religion of choice. The families aren't allowed to visit or even know where their loved ones are being held. They were not even allowed to attend the trial, which is reported as being more like a kangaroo court rather than a court of law.

Since FOCH was founded in 1995, we have not, as a matter of policy, spoken publicly of the politics or injustices against the Montagnard people of the Central Highlands of Vietnam. Our agenda has been providing assistance to the children and families so that they could move on into a better way of life. But it's about time that we all move on and realize that we are all in this thing called life, together. It's about changes and it's about time that we need to try to turn things around.

FOCH is once again asking for your help in providing assistance to the families of those who have been incarcerated for expressing their views regarding the taking of their lands, and for expressing their views regarding the practicing of Christianity as their religion of choice. Every veteran knows that these two important rights have been protected for centuries and that untold lives have been lost through protecting land and religious freedoms.

As always, thanks for the continued support that is raised through the National 4th Infantry Division Association and the members who so willingly give to the cause for freedom, it's about time, it's about changes, and it's about time to turn this world around. If you are interested in our obsession with the Jarai, you can commit to helping us by pledging a donation, sending us your comments and suggestions, and telling us a little about yourself. Name _____ (Not required)

I've had a number of inquiries about the Survey/Questionnaire that was printed in the December issue of The Ivy Leaves. Primarily the inquiries have been about the very first question regarding paying the Executive Director. At this time I would like to set the record straight by saying that I had nothing to do with the content of any of the questions that were asked. I have never asked to be paid for what I do for this Association, nor do I intend to ever accept any type of salary. I like to think that all of us who hold offices within the Association do so for love of the Association and not for any type of personal gain. I recently sent a "News from National" newsletter to all National Officers, Chapter Presidents, Treasurers and other key Association personnel addressing this issue. In that newsletter I stated that no one person should stay in a job or office so long as to become a "fixture".

I think that it is now time for me to step down and let someone else have all this fun. If you are interested or know of someone who might be interested please let me know. The person should have some computer knowledge and have a multitude of time on their hands. Also along those lines I would like to step down as Webmaster of our Internet website. Our website was one of the very first Association websites to appear on the Internet and is fast approaching its 250,000th "hit" (visit). To date over 600 new members have joined through our website. If you have the skills required to run a website I will be happy to turn it over to you.

In the News from National newsletter that I sent out I had Jr. Vice President Ray Dunkel's e-mail address wrong. His correct e-mail address is raydunkel@evansnationalbank.net. Ray, I apologize.

There has been a lot of confusion and questions regarding the Association's policy on multiple Chapter memberships and Secondary Chapters. The Executive Board has developed an official Association policy and it is printed elsewhere in this issue of The Ivy Leaves. Please read it so that you will know where you stand if you are seeking multiple memberships.

As of the end of January we still have 700 members who have not yet paid their 2002 dues. Those 700 people did not receive this issue of The Ivy Leaves. We only have a very limited number of "extra" magazines so even if they now pay their dues chances are that they will not get this issue. Congratulations to the Midwest, New England, Eastern Pennsylvania, Illinois and Wisconsin Chapters. They have the highest percentage of renewals thus far. I hope that all of our Chapters will keep working on getting the above-mentioned 700 back on our rolls.

Once again if you are interested in running for Executive Director or would like to run our website, please let me know.

4thfully, Roger S. Barton
